

Warren: Why?

Sullivan: I don't need one.

Warren: You're in commerce. Aren't you?

Sullivan: It doesn't matter. You don't need a business license to operate websites.

Warren: Really?

Sullivan: No you don't.

Warren: Okay. Any investors in things you do?

Sullivan: No. If there were investors there'd be a lot of advertising. There's not much advertising, it's mostly SCO.

Warren: So it's just, you're a one man band, you and your pseudonym.

Sullivan: For the most part, yeah. I mean there's other businesses involved but they're primarily, their roles are fairly limited.

Warren: What does that mean though? Why do you say that? Your other businesses involved?

Sullivan: There are other businesses involved in limited capacities.

Warren: Your businesses or other people's businesses that are...

Sullivan: Other people's businesses involved in limited capacities.

Warren: Okay.

Dolbey: Like?

Warren: As far as advertising is concerned? Or what?

Dolbey: Pay Pal?

Sullivan: Pretty, they're...I'm not gonna get into that. It would not be polite.

Dolbey: It's obviously Pay Pal.

Sullivan: I am not gonna get into other businesses' issues. Anything that involves other people besides the people we are talking about that are relevant, directly relevant to this matter now.

Dolbey: Um-hm.

Warren: I'm listening.

Sullivan: I'd really like to go home.

Warren: Not gonna happen.

Sullivan: Why not?

Warren: Because you're under arrest.

Sullivan: For?

Warren: Coercion.

Sullivan: Coercion. How so?

Warren: You made threats in a number of different ways. And you know how although you don't want to tell us about it even though we have written proof of it. I don't understand why that is.

Sullivan: Um, I want A [REDACTED] K [REDACTED] arrested.

Warren: I want to grow my hair back. Ain't gonna happen.

Sullivan: She sent me threats.

Dolbey: Where is the documentation?

Sullivan: It was sent to Mr. Darling in an email.

Dolbey: I'll deal with Mr. Darling then.

Sullivan: Yeah.

Dolbey: We'll look into that.

Warren: And we absolutely will. He's not just jerking you off.

Sullivan: No.

Warren: We'll take a look at it. If she committed a crime, she'll be investigated for it.

Sullivan: Okay.
